

Facets of Leadership: Turning Management Thinking Into Management Action

Top consultant Fred Cannon pulls together the work of leading management figures such as John Harvey-Jones, Peter Drucker, Gary Hamel, David Goleman, Michael Hammer and more to create a stunning collection of management insights. Divided into five sections, each dealing with a different facet of business leadership, the book provides key advice for anyone wanting to hone their leadership skills, and make a real impact on their business. The five sections covered are: leadership, performance management, team management, strategic planning, and making things happen. Facets of Leadership is a celebration of all that is best in consulting, and a chance to learn from a wide cross-section of management gurus all within a single text. Essential reading for all aspiring (and existing) business leaders.
