

Communication Teapot

This research book is nothing else but a collection of the observational data, which are the basement of my project and could be used for further inspiration. The more information you get about the discovered country the more points of interest you have. The goal of my work was to show how design and the traditional craft could collaborate differently if everyone listens and evaluates the work and proposals. It is very important to make the steps towards each other and not to break the traditional reality with design interference. It is necessary to analyse how to prepare the traditional craft to something new, to bring a variety that could meet acknowledgment beyond the social group. A revival of the traditional craft totally depends on a dialog of two persons: a designer and a craftsman.
