

When the King comes back

When the King Comes Back to Reign IS JESUS CHRIST coming back to reign on this earth? Will there be a literal Millennium? Do the Scriptures predict a kingdom of GOD characterized by righteousness and peace? Is the throne of David as real as the throne of Britain? Or are we to spiritualize the words of the prophet? Will the King come back to reign? Throughout the Old Testament Scriptures we are told of a world-wide dispersion. The Jews were to become wanderers among the nations. Were these predictions fulfilled? Did the dispersion take place? Was Israel carried away captive? Does history record such a dispersion? Are we to take these prophecies literally, or should they be spiritualized? I know very few of the old commentaries that are trustworthy when it comes to prophecy. Nearly all of them spiritualize the predictions of the Old Testament prophets and confuse the kingdom with the Church. Hence, their interpretations are worthless. There was a world-wide dispersion. Israel was carried away captive. These dispersions were literal. For more than two thousand years now the Jews have been wanderers among the nations. What, then, about a national restoration? Will it, too, be literal? Or are we to spiritualize all the predictions of a reigning Messiah? Are we to understand that the prophecies concerning the kingdom are all fulfilled in the Church? I do not think so. In fact, I am sure about it. If the predictions regarding the dispersion are to be interpreted literally, then we have no alternative but to interpret the predictions that have to do with the restoration in the same way. They have nothing whatever to do with the Church, regardless of what the great commentators have to say. Such interpretations are most misleading.
