

Half Heard Voices

I've always had faith - faith that God would provide me with answers. I've come to understand that the art of listening can be difficult to master, and sometimes it takes a while to hear - to understand the simplest of messages. When the world is quiet, and all that's left is your soul, you best learn to recognize its voice. Otherwise, you might just misunderstand the message. You might not hear the whisper that is your song.
